If the fund transfer pathway of the bondholders is changed, the bondholders shall notify Interbank Market Clearing House Co., Ltd. of the new fund transfer pathway in a timely manner prior to the date of interest payment and redemption. If the bondholders fail to notify Interbank Market Clearing House Co., Ltd. of the change of fund transfer pathway in a timely manner and fail to receive the funds in a timely manner, the issuer and Interbank Market Clearing House Co., Ltd. Shall not be liable for any loss arising therefrom.

III. Provisions on Grace Period and Other Matters Requiring Explanation

According to the provisions set out in the Prospectus for the Offering of the Medium-Term Notes in 2022 (Fourth Tranche) of China Vanke Co., Ltd., a grace period of 5 working days have been set up for the default of failure to repay the principal of or interest on the debt financing instruments in full and on time. During the grace period, interest shall be calculated based on the unpaid principal and interest due for the current period at a rate of floating 5 basis points above the coupon rate.

According to the relevant announcement of China Vanke Co., Ltd.'s the second holders' meeting of 2025 for medium-term notes in 2022 (fourth tranche), and the response of the enterprise, the proposal 3 of "Proposal to extend the grace period for this tranche of medium-term notes" was passed and came into effect. According to the content of the proposal, the relevant provisions of the grace period are adjusted as follows:

The grace period for the payment date of the principal and interest during the duration of this tranche of medium-term notes is extended from 5 working days to 30 trading days (i.e., the expiration date of the grace period is 28 January 2026, if the relevant trading days are changed due to holiday arrangements, this date shall prevail, and the expression of "30 trading days" in this proposal shall be subject to this date). If the principal and interest of this tranche of medium-term notes are fully repaid, the default event is eliminated or waived through the bondholders' meeting during the grace period of 30 trading days, it does not constitute a default by the issuer on this tranche of medium-term notes, and does not trigger the relevant default liability of this tranche of medium-term notes. That is, the issuer shall not be deemed in default until the expiration of the grace period of 30 trading days, and there is no penalty interest during the grace period, no liquidated damages, overdue interest and penalty interest are imposed or accrued. During the grace period for the outstanding principal, the interest will continue to be paid according to the coupon rate of this tranche of medium-term notes, and the actual daily interest paid during the grace period will be settled with the principal, and no additional interest will be accrued during the grace period of outstanding interest.

At this stage, the issuer will communicate and negotiate honestly with all parties, study and improve the initiatives, continue to seek solutions for this tranche of bonds and safeguard the long-term common interests of all parties.
